MONDAY, FEBRUARY 29, 1864.

We have been able to comprehend, at a time when the great armies, and Federal forces were confronting each other, the act has been along seemed to us one of the most folly, or stupidity, or, at any one of these combined. There was object to be accomplished in Florida, and it was not to be accomplished by the use of force, but by the use of the pen. The act has been along seemed to us one of the most folly, or stupidity, or, at any one of these combined. There was object to be accomplished in Florida, and it was not to be accomplished by the use of force, but by the use of the pen.

And look at the result of this ill-fated and ill-starred expedition. General Seymour, who was to be a poor creature, was sent to Florida, in the expectation, perhaps, that he could be full possession of the State and hold it at the end of the war. But he has been unsuccessful. He has been in the highest degree of trouble. There was such a concentration, an energetic and rapid one, and we all know the consequence. General Beauregard, General Hardee, and other distinguished rebel generals, defeated Seymour with a rebuff of 3,000 men, and he has been in the highest degree of trouble. There was such a concentration, an energetic and rapid one, and we all know the consequence. General Beauregard, General Hardee, and other distinguished rebel generals, defeated Seymour with a rebuff of 3,000 men, and he has been in the highest degree of trouble.

We take the following passage from an article in the Cincinnati Gazette: Mr. Davis has been making an apology in the Senate for his course toward Mr. Powell, in the following declarations: "I am satisfied that the country would be benefited by the removal of Mr. Davis from the office of Secretary of War. I am satisfied that the country would be benefited by the removal of Mr. Davis from the office of Secretary of War. I am satisfied that the country would be benefited by the removal of Mr. Davis from the office of Secretary of War."

By no means. The Gazette's contention is not only gross injustice to Mr. Davis, but is totally unwarranted by his language as the Gazette quotes it. Mr. Davis's language is not only gross injustice to Mr. Davis, but is totally unwarranted by his language as the Gazette quotes it. Mr. Davis's language is not only gross injustice to Mr. Davis, but is totally unwarranted by his language as the Gazette quotes it.

Well, sir, I do not desire it, as far as my vote goes, that Mr. Davis should be removed from the office of Secretary of War. I do not desire it, as far as my vote goes, that Mr. Davis should be removed from the office of Secretary of War. I do not desire it, as far as my vote goes, that Mr. Davis should be removed from the office of Secretary of War.

It is the position of Mr. Davis as contrasted with Senator Wilson's position. It is the position of Mr. Davis as contrasted with Senator Wilson's position. It is the position of Mr. Davis as contrasted with Senator Wilson's position. It is the position of Mr. Davis as contrasted with Senator Wilson's position.

The Herald's Army of the Potomac dispatch states that a reconnaissance by Col. Murphy of the 12th New York Cavalry, 61st to 63d Regt.,

men, on Thursday last, found a force of rebel cavalry. Their force retired without attacking them. It is supposed that a part of Lee's army was moving down on the west side of the mountain toward Harper's Ferry. The

The Herald's Washington dispatch says that Gen. Sickles is expected to start on Wednesday for the West, and thence to the Atlantic coast, visiting Nashville, Chattanooga, Hilton Head, Fortress Monroe, &c., to investigate concerning rebel deserters, prisoners of war, and parties taken in our lines, the result

It is understood that Gov. Boreman has duly transmitted the resolutions of the Secretary of West Virginia calling upon the military authorities for information as to the measures having been adopted for making good the deficiency in this State.

The reports that the enemy is sending large force towards Franklin, Pemberton county, Tenn., is untrue—the rebels having only a strong picket posted in that direction on the lookout for an advance from our side.

"This calamitous war, either as the real cause, or as the excuse, has assumed cause, has swelled the price of our commonest products till they almost rival the fabulous golden fruits of Hesperides. When wheat commands a ready, firm price of from 90 cents to $1 00 per bushel, oats 80 cents, corn $1 15 to $1 20, potatoes 90 cents, and when onions are considered cheap at $2 50 to $3 00 a bushel, certainly even the most avaricious cannot complain that farming in Minnesota does not pay."

the West, and should Europe be engulfed war before another twelvemonth, which more than possible, adding to the demand already existing, the American farmer is likely to be rewarded for his industry as never before. The support of larger armies at home, the operation of the conscription laws upon the labor market, the troubles which agitate the old world, all go to help the agricultural classes in the United States. Therefore, plenty of every acre of arable land that is possible. Wheat and corn are chiefly needed for export, but all the small grains, to say nothing of potatoes and other vegetables, will find a ready market.

GUERRILLAS IN MISSOURI.—A party of soldiers hunting guerrillas in Mississippi county, Mo., last week, approached the house of a widow Vernon, to inquire the whereabouts of the widow's sons. Mrs. Vernon stoutly den knowing anything about her boys; but it did not satisfy the soldiers, and two of them entered the house to search for them. As they were going up stairs to the second story the guerrillas fired upon the soldiers, killing Edward C. Edwards instantly, and wounding the other so that he subsequently died. The guerrillas then rushed out of the house, firing at the soldiers.

any harm. Two of the soldiers stayed with their wounded comrade, the other followed the guerillas into the woods, when the pursued turned upon their pursuer, chasing him through the bushes until he stumbled upon one of their horses, which he mounted and made good his escape. Reinforcements were sent for, and when they arrived, the whole party made preparation to encamp. When

A REBEL OFFICER TAKES THE AMERICAN
CROSS—Capt. J. H. Smith, of the Confederate army, took the oath of membership in the 1st Ohio cavalry, on Friday, before Colonel Har-gent of Northern Texas when the war broke out, having removed to that State from Piedmont county, Ky. He went into the Confederate service as a Lieutenant, and the battle of Shiloh was promoted to a Captain. Subsequently General Hardee accepted his resignation, which he tendered on account of ill-health. He also procured papers exempting him from the rebel conscription. After resigning he returned to Lexington, and Texas, where he found that Quantrell's men were committing great many outrages upon the people. He caused the arrest of a number of them by the Confederate authorities, which resulted in Quantrell's fight against him in 1862, and he was taken to the State Prison, and to be let out, he was sent to Baton Rouge, and from there came to Cairo.

Gurley, now confined in the Penitentiary, awaiting the termination of his trial on the charge of killing Gen. McCook, attempted escape on the evening previous by bribing the guard. The guard consented to the arrangement, and received the bribe-money $30. He did not, however, fully comply with the contract, for he informed on the Capital and had another guard posted beyond him to halt Gurley before he got beyond the prison precincts. Thus the guard made his thief of greenbacks, but the unfortunate Captain did not make his escape.—Nashville Gazette

A negro belonging to Mr. Ellison, of this county, went to the house of Mr. Simon Fudge, who resides several miles from this city, and after abusing Mr. F. and his wife, threatened to strike the former. Mr. F. continued to act on the defensive, until the negro attempted to draw a pistol, when he took up a shot-gun and fired, killing the negro instantly. Mr. Fudge came to the city yesterday morning, related the particulars, and gave himself up to Sheriff Hinton. — Nashville
